As part of National Ethical Investment Week, Ethical Investors are holding Plymouth's biggest ever public Ethical Investment Event. The event will be open to anyone interested in ethical finance, free of charge, and is organised in conjunction with the Centre for Sustainable Futures www.csf.plymouth.ac.uk

The event will provide ideas and opportunities for investment, a forum for discussion and a venue for sharing future ethical investment interests and requirements. In this newly adjusted world of sustainable living, Fair Trade purchasing and social responsibility strategies, this event will encourage us to think more broadly about social impact and global interaction, while demonstrating just how each individual can really make a difference. There will be presentations, stalls and films on all aspects of ethical finance. Companies participating will include;

Brewin Dolphin; Private client ethical investment portfolio management service. www.brewin.co.uk

Co-operative Bank; In 1992, after a long consultation with its customers, The Co-operative Bank launched its Ethical Policy – a first amongst UK high street banks (and still unique today). www.goodwithmoney.co.uk

Ecos Trust - a new project to give people the chance to invest in Ecological building projects in the South West. www.ecostrust.org.uk

Impax; a relatively new investment opportunity. It was formed to enable investors to benefit from rapid and sustained growth in the markets for cleaner and more efficient delivery of basic services of energy, water and waste. www.impax.co.uk

Jupiter investment funds;

Jupiter's Ecology fund was one of the first of the environmentally-based Unit Trusts to appear in the UK, with the emphasis on investing in the most environmentally sound companies in various sectors.
